An introduction from your new 4-H Educator

Dear 4-H Members, Families, and Leaders,

My name is Natasha Holtmeyer, and I'm excited to introduce myself as the new 4-H Youth Development Extension Educator for Sweetwater County! It's a true honor to join this passionate, community-driven program.

I grew up in Farson, Wyoming, and earned my degree in Interdisciplinary Studies from Chadron State College, focusing on youth development, afterschool administration, and rangeland management. During college, I also worked with ExtensionCorps, assisted in an afterschool program, and volunteered with the Chadron Volunteer Fire Department. I spent time in South Dakota, where I earned my EMT certification, ran a coffee shop, taught skiing, and substitute taught. In 2019, I married my husband, and we moved to Utah in 2020, where I served as a 4-H coordinator with USU Extension for three years.

As a 4-H'er myself, I participated in buymanship/fashion revue, fly tying, hogs, sheep, rabbits, Junior Leaders, and represented Wyoming at Citizenship Washington Focus in 2012. 4-H truly shaped my path, and I'm passionate about helping today's youth grow through it, too. Outside of work, I enjoy hiking, reading, and time with my family and dog. I'm eager to meet all of you, learn about your clubs, and support your 4-H goals. Please feel free to reach out anytime and stop by my office when you can!
